

I feel that on this particular issue an organization will be at lower standards that if it is seperate. Please realize that it needs to be seperate. If everyone does there own fact checking and reporting you get new and different angles for things. If only one person does a story or idea it gets one source. I'm currently in college and if we only had one source for something our teacher would throw it out and say that the paper has a bias. I believe these same standards apply for news organizations.
